

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office

March 29, 1999 LB 476

And I'd give the rest of my time to Senator Chambers.

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Mr. President, and thank you, Senator Hartnett. Members of the Legislature, Senator, believe it or not, "Baron" Tyson and I have been discussing this bill, and we both have concluded that it is terribly drafted. Now, Senator Redfield, I don't know if you know how to cook anything. You can just nod, if you do. Do you know how to cook anything that requires more than four ingredients? Now if you had...if you were cooking a dish that had...that required only.... Let me ask Senator Redfield a question or two, because I want to get to a point. Senator Redfield, would you yield to a question or two?

SPEAKER KRISTENSEN: Senator Redfield.

SENATOR REDFIELD: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Redfield, do you support this bill as it's drafted?

SENATOR REDFIELD: Actually, I'd like to see some of the amendments pass, and then I certainly will support it.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Redfield, if I were cooking a dish that requires four ingredients, none of which is onion, garlic, or hot sauce, let's say I'm baking a pie, suppose somebody came along and said, I think you ought to put an onion in there. So I put an onion in it. Then somebody else said, well since you put an onion, I think garlic goes well; I put garlic. Then somebody else says, well I love Red Devil Louisiana Hot Sauce, so I put a half a cup of that in it. Now I'm going to come up with something, but do you think what I have would be a pie, as people understand a pie?

SENATOR REDFIELD: Are you referring to your amendments?

SENATOR CHAMBERS: No, no, I'm...

SENATOR REDFIELD: Oh.
